

Art House Conspiracies

a 60 min TV series

Synopsis Episode 1

John and Kwon are interrupted at their studio by an urgent call from Chandra. Her friend Alfred, an artist newly represented by the prestigious Art House Gallery, has been found murdered. John agrees to use his special gifts in processing information to catch the murderer. Chief Inspector Diaz is heading the investigation. Seeing John's ability, she welcomes his cooperation and his Art Group. The Diaz Cop-World team, Marco, Matilda, and Jake lead the investigation.

Matilda recognizes Kwon who is a famous martial arts expert. Both the Cop-World team and Art Group follow up leads and gather information. Orchestrated by a street king, Marco and Matilda are drawn into a shoot out where a perp is wounded and taken into custody at a local hospital. Another perp escapes. Evidence indicates that possible white collar crime and digital material may be involved at Art House. At Alfred's studio John and Kwon are surprised by a knife-wielding assailant. Kwon is wounded and the assailant gets away.

John's continuing investigation indicates that a vast network of international corporate corruption plays a role in the management of Art House Gallery. The possibility that Alfred was involved in whistle blowing suggest a new motive. Adele, the director of the gallery, seems involved.

The new murder of a banker who is literally stapled to the wall confirms the big money connection. We learn more about the Art Group as they reconsider their involvement. Kwon and Matilda bond at the Art Bar Cafe. Jake learns from his mob informant that a local gang is fencing high-end corporate blackmail. A hit-man enters the hospital and eliminates the perp and cop guarding him.

Jake, incensed by the unfolding situation, convinces Amira, their communications officer, to hack a tap on the gallery director's phone. John's own communication officer taps the same phone. A blackmail pay-off is set for that evening at a downtown warehouse. John, Kwon, and Diaz converge on the location. Kwon again battles the assailant. This time the assailant dies. A standoff where Adele is held hostage is resolved by the late arrival of Marco and Matilda in a shoot out. Four perps are apprehended, but the street king escapes with the flash drive and Kwon reinjured is hospitalized. The assailant is ID'd as Alfred's killer, but the big money threads are still not resolved. John and Diaz solidify a respect for each other's skills and leadership. Seeing John's devotion to Kwon, Matilda decides John might be OK. As he waits for Kwon to regain consciousness, John is sobered by the reality of battle and his own lack of skills.
